

Closed Captioning was a life-saver for my Mother who was hard of hearing for years and very deaf in her last ten years of life (she died three weeks short of her 96th birthday). I have a hearing problem also. I find all TV Channels are not good at the captioning...missing words and spelling that leaves me wondering what was said. Are there standards for those doing the captioning? Perhaps there should be. Also the captioning should be placed at the bottom or top of the screen instead of in the middle of the picture which is a distraction. Thank you.
